STNOPSIS

Chapter I—D'Auriae, commanding outpost where scene is laid tells the story. Do Gomeron has been appointed by Gen. de Rone to eakmine into a charge made against him. Etcholas, a sergeant, brings in two prisoners, a man and a woman, who are from the bingle camp at i.e. Fere. D'Auriae, angered by insulting manner of de Gomeron, toward the woman strikes him. D'Auriac, angere d by tasulting manner of de Gomeron toward the woman, strikes him A duel follows, and during the commolton the prisoners excaps. De Rone tappens on the disorderly Scene, and d'Auriac, upon giving his paro'e not to attempt escape, hears this remarkable sentence: "To-morrow..., you must die on the field. Win or lose, if I catch Zou at the close of the day, I with hang you as high as Haman." Chapter II—IV auriac next morning takes Chapter II-D'Auriae next morning takes his place as usual on de Rone'e ataff. in the course of his ride over the field he saves the life of Nicholas, the sergeanl, who, a victim of de Gemeron's matice, is found in teminient danger of almost instant sheath. Chapter HI—After the battle in which King Henry utterly routs de Rone's forces, da'uriae, tying aeverely wounded, sees the forms of a man and woman moving under cover of the night among the dead and wounded. They find a golden collar and wounded. They find a golden collar on de Leyva's corpse, and Babelle siabs Mauginot ther pariner) to gain possession of the prise. After this hideous scene Henry with a retinue, among whom is the fair prisoner who had escaped from the hand of de Gorderon, ridea over the field. Chapter IV—IVAurtac in the hospital of Ste. Our Policy of Territorial Expancion Extreme annexationists are advocating th diction of Canada to this country, and think it can be accomplished in a peaceful manner without exciting a quarrel with England. Such grave questions call for the wisest statesmanship, just as dyspepsia, constipa-tion, liver and kidney diseases and malaria call for a thoroughly reliable remedi like Hos-tetter's Stomach Hitters. No experimenting should be done with untried medicines when an old established preparation is to be had.
